

Joe Schenk, PT, DPT

Physical Therapist

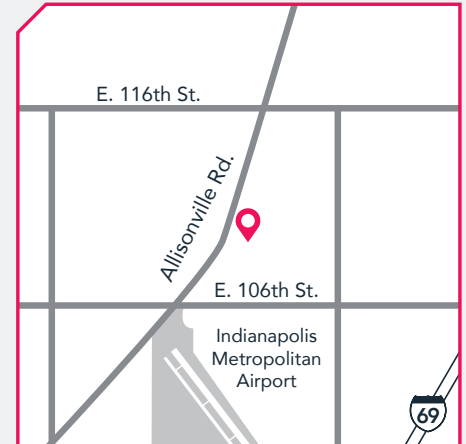

Joe Schenk is a board-certified clinical specialist in orthopedics who takes a hands-on approach to care. He incorporates manual therapy into his work with patients and emphasizes education to help them better understand their condition or diagnosis and how therapy can help them move forward.

Joe knows firsthand the role physical therapy can play in helping someone return to the activities that matter most to them. As a college soccer player, he tore his ACL during his freshman year and went through surgery and physical therapy to get back on the field. That experience ultimately inspired him to pursue physical therapy as a career and help others work toward their own individual goals.

Joe is certified in dry needling and has additional training in pain education. He completed an orthopedic residency at St. Ambrose University, where he also received his Doctor of Physical Therapy. Joe holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Indianapolis.
